

AVERSANO DUPRE BARNES GABLE HULLAVARAD KOSCIEJEW O'HARE ROY STARNES VASEK SITTON

Digital Vellum and Other Cures for Bit Rot Page 20

Marc Koscieljew, Ph.D. is a lecturer of library, information, and archive sciences within the Faculty of Media and Knowledge Science at the University of Malta. He received his honours bachelor degree in political science from the University of Toronto and his masters and Ph.D. degrees in library and information science from Western University in London, Ontario, Canada. He also holds certificates in web search strategies, records management, and freedom of information and protection of privacy from the University of Toronto. He can be contacted at mkoscieljew@gmail.com.

The Principles: Using the Principles to Guide EDRM Software Decisions Page 26

Julie Gable, CRM, CDIA, FAI, is the retired president and founder of Gable Consulting LLC, a firm that served clients' information governance needs for the past 25 years. The author of numerous articles on information-related topics, she has a master's degree in finance from St. Joseph's University and a bachelor's degree in management from Drexel University. Gable can be contacted at juliegable@verizon.net.

Avoiding the Hammer: Defensible Strategies for FRCP Proposed Rule 37(e) Page 32

Katherine Aversano, J.D., is an historic research and information specialist at the U.S. Department of Justice. For more than six years, she has served government agencies on engagements involving environmental litigation. Her practice includes electronic discovery, information management, and litigation consulting. Aversano, who earned her legal degree from Howard University School of Law, can be contacted at katherine.aversano@gmail.com. The views and opinions expressed in this article do not necessarily represent the position of the Department of Justice, the United States, or any agency thereof.

Joe Starnes, J.D., is a senior associate with Deloitte Transactions and Business Analytics LLP, focusing on discovery and supporting federal litigation involving environmental claims. He has more than three years of experience serving federal government agency clients. Starnes earned his law degree at Vermont Law School. He can be contacted at jmstarnes@gmail.com enterprise content management (ECM)/enterprise records management (ERM) administrator, where he oversees the active and inactive records. He is also responsible for maintaining the ECM platform and providing oversight for the implementation and management of the system. He has authored 81 technical papers and presented at national conferences. Hullavarad can be contacted at sshullavarad@alaska.edu.

RIM Fundamentals: Taming the Information Explosion with Enterprise Content Management Page 40

Shiva Hullavarad, Ph.D., is the University of Alaska System

Russell O'Hare, Ed.D., CRM, is the chief records officer for the University of Alaska System where he is responsible for the university records information compliance program, approves university retention and disposition schedules, and oversees the statewide records center, micrographics, and enterprise content management offices. He can be contacted at rjohare@alaska.edu.

Ashok Roy, Ph.D., CBA, CIA, is the vice president for finance & administration / chief financial officer for the University of Alaska System, as well as associate professor of business administration. He has authored more than 88 publications on business topics, including a chapter in two encyclopedias. He can be contacted at akroy@alaska.edu.

Culture and Community: IG in the Global Arena Page 42

Nancy Dupre Barnes, Ph.D., CRM, CA, holds a Ph.D. in educational psychology and research from the University of Kansas and a bachelor of arts degree in political science from the University of Massachusetts. She has provided records and information management, data analysis, and research-related services to organizations in a variety of sectors. Barnes is a self-employed consultant who can be contacted at ndbarnes@ymail.com.

Making Sense of Brontobytes Page 46

Judy Vasek Sitton, CRM, is an information governance analyst for Kinder Morgan in Houston. A Certified Records Manager for more than 25 years, she has designed, implemented, and managed record systems for organizations in a variety of industries. Vasek Sitton co-authored the ARMA-published book Managing Active Business Records in 2014, has written several articles for national publications, and is a frequent speaker for university classes and association meetings. She earned a bachelor of arts degree from Our Lady of The Lake University in San Antonio, Texas. Vasek Sitton can be contacted at jvscrm@yahoo.com.